THE Natchez (Miss.) Democrat of the 24th inst. contains the following alarming statement concerning the health of one of the Senstors of that State: "Some of Senator Lamar's friends doubt very much if that distinguished gentleman will ever be able to reoccupy his seat in the Senate or participate in its proceedings. He wen into the late canvass in opposition to the wishes of his advisers, and delivered say eral speeches in a sitting position, being unable to stand through weakness result ing from his debilitated condition. A waites in the Atlanta Cor speaking of the many cheerful signs of re vived prosperity in Georgia, says:

vived prosperity in Georgia, says:

"It has been shown that free labor is better than slave labor, and that Georgia farmers have prospered above any others. Gold mills and coal mines have been catablished under various conditions, and all have paid handsomely. Cotton mills have been run by water and steam, in city and country, and their dividends have been uniformly greater than those of New England mills. Factories of all sorts have been put in operation, and we have yet to hear of the first one that does not make dividends. Immigrants have been planted dividends. Immigrants have been planted here and there in groups, and there is not one adverse voice in their verdict, which is bringing hundreds of their countrymen

"If there is a single interest in the Stat that is languishing—if there is a single in-dustry that is not prospering—if there is a single department of trade or labor within all our borders in which there is not activity, expansion and growth, we do not know what it is. If there is a single in-telligent experiment made in the past ten years in Georgia, that has not succeed-ed, or given evidence that success was pose do not recall it.

POLITICAL excitement ran high among he young ladies at Vassar during the recent campaign, and on election day everything else was forgotten. The Hancock maidens turned up their pretty noses at the Garfield girls, and vice versa. The Republican lasses made a raid upon the museum, brought out a skeleton, dressed it in an ulster and dared to label it "Hancock after the election." The Democratic darlings unable to hit upon any new device, lugged ou another skeleton, dressed it up in a similar manner, only changing the label to "Garfield after the election." This went on all day until the evening came and the election news began to came in When the result of the election came in back went the Garfield skeleton to th museum, while the Hancock skeleton stood its ground till the janitor carried i back and took off its ulster and label the next morning. Had the Vassar young ladies been allowed to vote, Garfield's ma jority in New York State would have been

The New York Herald states that the in-The New York Herald states that the increase of cases of diphtheria this year has been so great as to assume the proportions of an epidemic. Statistics of the cases reported in that city for the two months of September and October and twenty days of November show that there were one thousand and fifty persons stricken with the disease during that period, of whom four hundred and thirty-one died, the number of deaths from the same cause during the entire three months of 1879 being but one hundred and seventy. In view of this condition of things the New York Board of Health has issued a circular describing the disease, the manner in which the contagion spreads, the predisposing conditions, and the precautions to be observed. The principal precautionary measures to be taken, both as preventives and remedial agents, are declared to be cleanliness in and around the dwelling, and pure air in living and sleeping rooms. Where the disease has obtained. to be cleanliness in and around the dwelling, and pure air in living and sleeping rooms. Where the disease has obtained a foothold thorough purification of every room and the free use of disinfecting sgents is insisted upon. The carpets, bed clothing and all upholstered furniture in the rooms that have been occupied by persons who have had the diphtheria must be exposed, says the circular, to fresh sir and sunlight, together with the rooms themselves, for at least a week before reoccupation. The people are also requested in another circular to keep their children from school from the time of the commencement of the disease until the attending physician states that the patient is recovered. The board also warn persons from being present at a church where there is a public funeral of any one who has died of the disease.

The total number of deaths in Brooklyn from diphtheria alone since the first of January is reported by the bureau of vital statistics to have been eight hundred and eighty-one. Scarlet fever, which has its origin in the same cause, is also very prevalent in Brooklyn. Thirty-six cases and six deaths, were reported there the week before last, and for the week just closed filty-nine cases and six deaths, og, and pure sir in living and sleeping
